Heads Up!

Mr Linsley apologises for there being no Heads Up this week but he has understandably been rather busy with more pressing matters, especially with having 3 schools to sort out. We do appreciate your help and co-operation at this difficult time and trust that things get back to normal sooner rather than later.

We hope that the children and their families stay safe and healthy whilst we are off and we look forward to having everybody back in school as soon as possible.

Arrival at school

Children who are still coming to school next week should be dropped off and collected from the junior (North) building please. Obviously this is not our normal service and Mr Linsley has asked that parents are made aware that during the day the children will be working across both sites, on occasions with only one member of staff rather than two.

Children should wear their usual school uniform and treat the day as a normal school day, just with less children! School dinners will be provided as usual.

Work packs

The children have all been given a pack of work to do whilst they are unavoidably absent from school. There is plenty to keep them occupied and more!!! Staff e-mail addresses are on the covering letter in case of queries - the admin e-mail account WILL be accessible during normal school hours.

Breakfast club & After school club

Breakfast club will run as normal next week, as staff will be in school from 8am, as usual but unfortunately the after school clubs will not run as we have in effect closed the school to all visitors.

Parents Afternoon

Parent's afternoon has been postponed, for the time being. Once everything is back to normal, we will arrange a new date.

Book fair/Author visit

Unfortunately Travelling Books have cancelled our book fair scheduled for Monday 23rd & Tuesday 24th March so it will now be held at a later date. Similarly our visit by Liz Million, a local author who was due to visit soon, has also been postponed.

Easter Garden Competition

Entries for the Easter Garden competition can still be handed in at school. Staff will be in school all of next week at the very least so we are looking forward to your entries. Perhaps this could be something to do whilst the children are off school.
